

Dear Year 6,

Another week in lockdown completed and can you believe you just survived SATs week.

Congratulations!

I had a few country list entries after I had written last week's round up. So well done to Samaah, who had 22 countries; Martha, who competed against her family members and won with 42 countries; Charlotte wrote a list of 37 countries; and Rhys got a fab list of 24 countries.

Martha has been reaping the benefits of her daily walk as she has now been out climbing hills on her bike. Her vegetable patch is coming along nicely, well done for looking after it Martha. She has also counted up her reading ticks and has reached the platinum award. What an achievement!

Last week, I told you that Jasmine had been working on her Olympic Country Topic work, well I have now read Jasmine's project and learnt a lot about the country of Vanuata.

Rhys has been busy again this week. He had a fab time celebrating VE day. He created bunting and him and his family had an afternoon tea (which looked delicious). He also created a VE day presentation showing how much he understood about why we celebrate VE day each year.

Caroline has sent me some fantastic work that she has done with the Talk4Writing unit we posted on the school website. I have also read her project on South Korea. I learnt a lot including that their culture sees 4 as an unlucky number. I've always liked square numbers.

My word challenge this week is going to be extended for another week. I had an entry from Rhys.

His new word was:

Tergiverstate – to change repeatedly ones attitude or opinion on a subject.

Have a fantastic weekend everyone!
